MISHAWAKA DAY WAS GENERALLY OBSERVED

Schools and Many Business Places Closed. Jake Hessler "Touched" for $38.

Mishawakans attended the opening of the fair in general and the city was completely deserted during the afternoon. The few stores that remained open didn't do enough business to make it worth their while and those that closed had the satisfaction of knowing that they missed nothing by locking their doors during the afternoon hours. The local school children were given a full half holiday and went by the hundreds to the fair grounds where they enjoyed their free treat of admission to the utmost limit. During the evening the city literally emptied itself into Springbrook park. The street railway company ran two minute service during the entire afternoon and late into the night, taking care of the immense traffic, while numerous nondescript jitneys got a generous share of the traffic. The fact that local citizens did so well in observing South Bend Mishawaka day at the fair was most gratifying to Otto E. Lang, who since the inception of the enterprise, has taken an active part in bringing it to a successful issue, and who naturally feels elated over the results attained so far, on account of his responsibility in placing so many shares of the concern throughout Mishawaka and its environs.

The only untoward event reported was the loss of a pocketbook containing $38.00, and which belonged to Jake Hessler, erstwhile citizen of Mishawaka, now in Woodland, south of the city. Jake told the local police about his loss Tuesday night but has sense enough to know that his chances of seeing his wallet again are mighty slim. It not only contained money to the above amount but hidden away in its recesses were several family heirlooms in the shape of valuable trinkets which had been in the Hessler family since long before the days of family reunions. Of course, Jake does not know where he lost the money, but has the shadow of a suspicion that it was taken from his hip pocket while he was in the grandstand absorbed in the races. The local police force again sounded a warning Tuesday night to those who are inclined to be careless in taking care of their money while visiting at the fair.

The News-Times purse of $1,000 which is to be competed for at the track this afternoon is going to draw even a bigger crowd of local people than went to the park Tuesday. Now that the fair has had such an auspicious opening, the crowds from this city and the country districts surrounding are likely to increase in volume daily until the close of the celebration. Thursday afternoon the Dodge Mfg. Co. will close its big plant in order to give its many hundreds of employes an opportunity of going to Springbrook, while several of the other concerns will allow their hands to get off during the week at different times.

FAIR TICKETS AT LANG STORE.

For the convenience of local citizens who intend going to the fair at Springbrook, general admission tickets for adults and children have been placed on sale at the O. E. Lang & Co. hardware store. By securing these in the city, purchasers will be enabled to avoid the rush at the gate.

NEW YORK BANKS WILL HELP LOAN

Biggest Gotham Houses Invited to Participate in Raising Billion Dollars.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The biggest banking houses in New York having German connections are expected to accept an invitation to participate in floating the $1,000,000,000 loan for the allies.

These bankers regard the loan, not from a political but from a strictly American business point of view. Members of the Anglo-French commission appeared displeased Tuesday when they learned that such firms as Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and J. and W. Seligman & Co. had not been taken into council by the bankers here handling the negotiations. And it is gathered that no time will be lost in inviting every responsible banking house to join.

It can be stated authoritatively that nearly every so-called German banking firm in New York city is much less rabid than is popularly supposed. The Lusitania incident angered many of them.

U. S. First Is Stand.

All firms are understood to take the view that the first concern of the United States must be to foster its own commerce, no matter who may be benefited.

Basel P. Blackett, a member of the commission, when told that no prominent German-American financiers had attended the reception in the Morgan library and that some resentment was felt, replied:

"It is unfortunate if any impression has gone out that there was any intention to slight any one."

Mr. Blackett said that some resentment was felt, replied:
